POLICE HUNT FOR MANIACAL KILLER IN N. Y.

Note To Newspaper Says Seven Are Marked For Tragic End

New York, June 19—(UP)—The maniacal slayer, who unflinchingly killed two men as part of his announced plot to murder 16 persons to retrieve some mysterious "papers," wrote today that he had spared his third victim—W. R. V-8.

It was the second note the slayer had sent to the New York Journal today. In the first he boasted that he had killed this third victim—despite vigilant watch by hundreds of detectives in the College Point section—and that the body would be found on the "Boston Road." The first letter said the dead man's name was "Harold Bridenbach," and added, "Find the woman and you've got me."

The second letter today did not mention the previous boasts of death but said W. R. V-8 had returned the "papers" and $37,000 blackmail money.

Return of this money spared five other persons, the letter said, including a woman slated for death, but the Journal note contained the following listed as a warning to seven others:

Warning to Seven

"NJ-COK-2-33-AV-3X Ros-4MLT-RP-46."

In telling of the slaying of the third victim the note said:

"W. R. V-8 of C. P. has returned the Philadelphia XV346 to me tonight after reading your paper—also 37,000 dollars of the blackmail money—thanks to God—if I may use his name. The following document still is missing—N. J. 4-3-44 and 39,000 dollars for this document. The following people still are marked for death."

The note then lists in code the seven victims the maniac still wants to kill.

The letters came to the Journal while scores of police searched the Boston Road in the Bronx section searching for the body that the maniac slayer previously had written about.

"Where is X8 W-9. He is already dead, said the first letter that came after police had patrolled Petters' Lanes all night long, fearing the slayer might try to fulfill his threat of death as he had in the killings of John Moynski and Noel Sowley.

The letter lists the following as "X14, X-21, L-6, X-7, X-1, V-4."

TIDAL WAVE AND STORMS TAKE 27 LIVES IN BRITAIN

20 Of Dead Drowned In Wave: Many Farms Are Isolated

London, June 19—(UP)—Twenty-seven persons are dead in the British Empire as a result of storms and a tidal wave.

Seven were killed by a spectacular rain and electrical storm in southern England. The other 20 were sailors, who were drowned by a tidal wave which followed an earthquake in New Guinea.

By a queer freak of nature, a large section of England between Dorset and Essex was suffering from a severe drought at the moment the rain-storm struck. Bournemouth, among other places, had not had a drop of rain in 19 days.

One of the dead was Walter Holbein, a bookmaker, who was struck by lightning while he stood only a short distance from the royal box at Ascot, where King George and Queen Mary were seated.

Three other persons were drowned in the New Mill area of Manchester. London electrical railway lines were short-circuited, 1100 telephones were put out of commission, and two schools were damaged by lightning.

In the rural areas, many farms were isolated, houses were half submerged, and cattle were drowned.

Mrs. Mary E. Clark Died Last Evening

Mrs. Mary E. Clark, widow of the late James B. Clark, passed away at the Amboy hospital last evening after an illness of some duration. Funeral services will be held at the home of her nephew, P. F. Reilly of Amboy at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning and at St. Patrick's Catholic church in Amboy at 9 o'clock, with burial at St. Michael's (Sandy Hill) cemetery.

Mary E. Mooney was born in May township and had been a resident of Lee county for over forty years. She was preceded in death by her husband and an only daughter, Mrs. John Doyle of Dixon. Five grandchildren—Frances, William, Charles, Dorothy and John Doyle, Jr.—and an only sister, Miss Anna Mooney, all of Dixon, survive.

RETURNED TO BIG WELCOME IN NEW YORK

Reception Is Almost Equal That Given Col. Lindbergh

New York, June 19—(AP)—Aerial conqueror of both ends of the earth, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd set foot again today on the turf of lower Manhattan, from which he sailed twenty months ago on a pilgrimage of exploration into the white wastes of Antarctica.

Surrounded in sea and sky and on the land by a roaring welcome in which planes and harbor craft and cheering thousands joined, he debarked from the city welcoming tug Macon to receive from the City of New York the third and by far the most boisterous greetings it was tended to him for his achievements of exploration by air.

He landed at 10:40 A. M. after spending the night aboard his ship, the Eleanor Bolling, in the outer harbor.

Streaming along behind the Macon were fifty or more harbor craft of all descriptions, as spectacular a marine demonstration as New York had seen since Colonel Lindbergh came back from Paris. As the parade passed Governor's Island, salute guns roared thirteen times.

Whistle and siren handles were tied down on passing tugs, and big liners on both the Brooklyn and Manhattan shores added their deep-throated salutes. Fire boats played streams of water into the air, their thin white spray, touched by the sun, making a back drop of rain bows.

Greeted Mother First

As the Macon nosed into Pier A, the crowd on shore added its voice to that of the harbor craft. The Admiral stepped ashore at 10:40.

A moment later he and his party were in automobiles and swung out of Battery Place, preceded by bands and a military and police escort, into the canyon of lower Broadway.

As far up the street as the eye could see a solid wall of people closed in, leaving only a narrow passage way.

Admiral Byrd had boarded the Macon half an hour before from his barque, the City of New York, at Quarantine. The first person he greeted was his mother, whom he held in a warm embrace for a moment, then turned to other relatives and friends.

"It's good to get back again," he said smiling, as he greeted the city from the radio telephone aboard the Macon. "It's good to have this reception."

Related Accomplishments

Then, turning to the reporters, he spoke of the serious business which took him to the Antarctic and of what his expedition had accomplished there.

First, he said, they had discovered and explored 125,000 square miles of existence of which had only been surmised before. They found rock formations indicating great coal deposits, of commercial significance. They photographed miles on miles of ice covered terrain and they definitely established the place in Antarctica of a permanent weather station.

The thing for which he was most thankful, he said, was that he had brought his expedition all safely home.

"All my men have come back safe," he said feelingly, "of which we must thank providence."

The Admiral said he had no future plans and would not undertake further explorations until a $100,000 debt remaining from this expedition was cleared away.

Of the prominent contenders in the field of 112, only George von Elm of Detroit; George Duncan and Maj. C. O. Hezlet failed to qualify for the final test on Friday.

Horton Smith, young Joplin, Mo. pro, stands third with a total of 145, while five were tied at 147. Archie Compton, MacDonald-Smith, Leo Diegel, Don Moe and P. H. Rodgers.

All players who scored 158 or better for the first 36 holes of the championship qualified for Friday's play.

DETROIT POLICE OFFICIAL AND PROMINENT LAWYER INVOLVED IN ALLEGED KIDNAPING RING

Exiles Self In Insane Hospital For Rest of Life

Peoria, Ill., June 19—(UP)—The hermit son of a wealthy German family who hid himself away from the world 20 years ago and became a voluntary inmate of the Peoria State Hospital for the Insane has permitted his last responsibility to be taken away so he may remain in the asylum and spend the rest of his life collecting butterflies.

John A. Rebmam, whose family owns the Rebmam Publishing Company of Germany, did not appear in court to contest his wife's divorce yesterday, and she was granted a decree through her attorney.

Mrs. Rebmam, engaged to a wealthy Britisher, is in England where she went soon after her husband left her in 1910 to begin a self-enforced exile in the asylum. With her are their son and daughter, now grown, whom Rebmam has not seen since they were small.

Rebmam was representing his family's interests in Chicago 20 years ago when he was slugged by a hold-up man. The injury healed but left its effects in insomnia. Rebmam began drinking and broke with his wife and with his own family.

He entered the Peoria hospital for treatment and was discharged as cured several weeks later but was unable to readjust himself to the world, and voluntarily returned.

Since then, by permission of asylum authorities, he has remained there as an unofficial inmate, collecting and mounting butterflies. He left for the first time last Tuesday to wind up his personal affairs. When he returns, he says, the asylum's doors will close on him for the rest of his life.

DUKE PING PONGER

London—(UP)—The Duke of Gloucester, president of the National Association of Boys' Clubs, played ping-pong during an informal and unannounced visit to the Eton College Boys' Mission at Hackney Wick.

Confessions were obtained from Stanley De Long and his wife Florence after they were threatened with execution in the electric chair in Ohio for murder of an unnamed man in or near Toledo.

Laman and Harry Andrews, who also made a confession, are serving 30 to 40 year terms in Michigan state prison at Jackson for kidnapping Fred Begeman, retired Wyandotte bootlegger.

Police said the confessions of Laman and Andrews and the DeLongs agreed even to minute details and arrested early this week and held in $150,000 bail on a kidnapping warrant, her husband, Joseph O'Reardon, alias "Red" Reardon, whom police are seeking; Ben Rubenstein, Harry Halley and Howard Barkley, who are held here, and several others.

Four or five years ago, Laman said, he, together with Luke Hartman, Andrews, the DeLongs, "Dude" Manuel and Joe Mariano, rented a house in Dearborn, Detroit suburb.

NEW GAS MAIN TO NORTH SIDE OF RIVER COMPLETED AND CONNECTED

The Myers Construction Company was today completing the laying of the new gas main which will supply the north side with a high pressure system. The new eight-inch main has been placed beneath the Peoria Avenue bridge and is today being connected with the booster line at the south approach, which will extend west along the Northwestern switch tracks to the storage plant.

An eight-inch extension is being placed underground from River street to Commercial Alley which later may be connected with the city mains which run east and west on First street.

When the new work is completed and in readiness for use, the temporary line on the west walk of the new bridge will be removed. It is also from the supply plant across the river, the use of which has been discontinued.

It is expected that the work of laying the new gas mains will be completed by the end of the week, so that the work of preparing the south approach and fill will not further be delayed. Contractor Heagy started yesterday grading the fill from River Street to Commercial Alley.

Against River Bank

Overtures were made by Mr. Fargo to interest him in the building of a hotel on the parking space east of the Galena Avenue bridge after acquiring the necessary air rights. This would necessitate a lease by the city to the builder but would not relinquish the parking space rights or ownership of the land, it was stated. The building would be constructed on cement piers, leaving the parking space beneath open, but protected. The hotel building expert who accompanied Mr. Fargo to Dixon yesterday favored such a plan, but the aged builder appeared to have definitely decided upon the Overstreet site for the location of the hotel should he decide to build here.

At This Morning's Meeting

At this morning's meeting at the Chamber of Commerce it was announced that the initial subscription toward the building of a modern hotel structure in Dixon, amounting to $100 from one individual had been forthcoming without having been solicited. After discussion, it was believed that a sum of $10,000 could be raised by public subscription and with this assurance, it was expected that no delay would be experienced in the securing of the necessary property and the immediate building operations started this summer.

Decision of the Business Interests

The decision of the business interests represented at the meeting was to be conveyed to Mr. Fargo and further developments would await his decision after considering the overtures of the Dixon business men who are interested in the building of a new hotel here. It was generally conceded that Dixon was the "garden spot" for the building of a modern hotel, and that such an addition to the city's business life would prove a valuable asset to the city. President Robert Sterling of the Chamber of Commerce stated at the meeting that a survey of hotel accommodations in Dixon had developed the fact that less than 35 hotel rooms were equipped with bath.

Thirty-Five Killed In Mine Explosion

Moscow June 19—(UP)—Thirty-five men were killed and many others were injured seriously when gas exploded in a coal mine at Artiomovsk, advices received here said today. The accident occurred yesterday, the reports said.

An official Soviet commission was designated to investigate the explosion, and began its work immediately.

BUSINESS MEN DECIDE TO AID IN PROMOTION

Fund of $10,000 Will Be Sought From Dixon Interests Soon

Dixon business interests may contribute approximately $10,000 toward the building of a new hotel in this city, it was decided at a meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce this morning at 11 o'clock. H. B. Fargo of Geneva, builder of hotels and theaters spent several hours in Dixon yesterday conferring with business men in an effort to secure a subscription toward the building of a new hotel in Dixon.

The site favored by the prospective builder is the Overstreet property on Third street and Galena Avenue. On his visit to Dixon yesterday Mr. Fargo was accompanied by his expert in hotel construction and after a general survey of locations, the Geneva builder was steadfast in his selection of this site. It was also found that an additional 35 feet of the south, which includes a part of the P. J. Moersbacher property, would be necessary for the construction of a hostelry to meet the plans of Mr. Fargo.

100-Room Structure

While no plans or specifications have been submitted, it was stated at today's meeting that Mr. Fargo favors the building of a hotel of not less than 100 guest rooms. A large ball room and dining hall would also be included in the plans. However, Mr. Fargo thus far has maintained that Dixon business interests should provide the site for the building of the hotel, which would then be decided to him.

In his visit yesterday, he assured the representative business men with whom he met, that he had made provisions for the disposition of all of his holdings upon his death. Mr. Fargo is 67 years of age and is unusually active for his years. He was said to have stated that provision had been made for the dealing of all of his holdings to Masonic organizations in the cities in which the hotels or theaters are located. In that event, the Dixon Masonic order would fall heir to the hotel property should Mr. Fargo decide to build here.

MY RAREST FINDS

JUST a bit of rhyming
To tell you all about
A jaunt I took. Antiquing,
To ferret treasures out.

I jingled doorbells up and down
A quaint old village street
And asked of dear old ladies,
So primly dressed and sweet.

If they mayhap had tucked away
A thing or two of yesterday

The treasures that were brought to light
With gentle hand and tender eye
Enriched my heart with sheer delight.

A romance here that ne'er will die.

And when at last I closed the door
On yesteryear's embrace I'd added richly to my store,
Rare manners, tender grace.

And so mayhap I've tucked away
The rarest things of yesterday.

Dinner Honored Miss Brady and Paul Frye

Miss Mary Hooker was hostess on Tuesday evening at her home at a most delightful dinner honoring the bride and groom of the approaching

Brady-Frye wedding, the bride-to-be, Miss Lauretta Brady of Amboy, being the guest of honor.

An elegantly appointed three course dinner was served. The table was beautifully decorated in pink and white. The centerpiece was composed of a miniature bride and bridegroom, with lilies of the valley and pink roses surrounding the crystal plateau which held the tiny couple. The illumination came from the mellow glow of pink tapers.

After dinner bridge was the diversion. Miss Lauretta Brady was presented a guest favor.

Present at the dinner were Miss Lauretta Brady, Paul Frye, prospective bride and bridegroom; Miss Frances Brady, a sister, who is to be maid of honor at the wedding, and Donald Rosecrans who is to be best man; Joe Keyser, an intimate friend, and the hostess, Miss Hooker. The guests were then invited to the dining room where they were seated at one large table, which presented a beautiful appearance. A dainty luncheon was served. Over the chandelier was suspended the proverbial white wedding bell. The centerpiece was formed of dainty white crystal tree, and standing under the tree were the miniature bride and bridegroom. White tapers graced the table at either end. Nut cups, place cards and the tallies for bridge were in pink and green. After the luncheon those present held for Miss Richardson a miscellaneous shower and she received many nice gifts for the future home, with good wishes from all for happiness.

This summer Miss Miller will attend summer school at Northwestern University and will leave for the west in the fall. The McGinnis home was prettily decorated in pink and white, roses and ferns making graceful bouquets throughout the rooms.

At bridge Mrs. W. S. Weiss of Amboy was awarded the favor for high score and Mrs. Stuart Pettigrew of Amboy was awarded the consolation favor. Misses Miller and Richardson received dainty guest favors.

ROMANCE OF THE MAIL.

Adventure sometimes comes closer to you than you imagine. Recently, for example, Ray Long, editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine, opened a manila envelope mailed a few days previously in San Francisco by Peter B. Kyne, containing the manuscripts of two stories. When Long drew them out he found them slightly damaged by fire. Noticing that the envelope, also somewhat burned, bore an air mail stamp, he wired National Air Transport for information. Soon he got this reply:

"Accident occurred at 3 a. m. April 26 near Curwensville, Pa. Pilot Henry J. Brown carrying 1421 pounds mail and express, leaving Cleveland 1:10 a. m. Motor failed to pick up quickly after switching from one gas tank to the other, causing decent into clouds and fog. Pilot jumped at altitude below 1000 feet over Clearfield mountains, landing safely, but plane burned. Postal Inspector McWin, Williamsport, superintended removal of salvaged mail and ashes."

THOSE DEPRAVED CHINESE!

Another Chinese killing—the third in two days—marks New York's newest Tong war, and once again we are beginning to wonder if the Chinese are not a sinister, lawless and bloodthirsty race. These Tong wars are always disturbing, even if they are very picturesque.

But before we ascribe any unusual bloodthirstiness to the Chinese, let's consider the fact that their Tong conflicts aren't a tenth as violent or deadly as an ordinary trade disagreement between two 100-percent American beer gangs. The Chicago underworld lays its victims out three and four at a time; the Tongs' killers can only manage three in two days.

A Tong war is a bad thing, of course, but there's no sense in pretending that it marks the Chinese as an inferior, undesirable race.

WHAT AVIATION NEEDS.

A couple of years ago leaders in the aviation industry were talking eagerly of the day when airplanes would be as common as autos; the day when the average citizen would own his own plane and would gaud about the country in it, for business or pleasure, an nonchalantly as he now does in his auto.

Now it is becoming apparent that that day is a good deal farther off than was then supposed. William B. Stout, famous Detroit airplane manufacturer, contends that it is the fault of the industry, which has failed to improve the design of the plane so that the ordinary man can operate it.

"Things are going to be different," says Mr. Stout. "We are going to fix it so that a man can take a couple of lessons on Friday and fly his plane home on Monday."

Mr. Stout has exactly the right idea. When planes become that simple, aviation as an industry will boom just as the auto industry boomed. But it won't until that day actually arrives.

NOT MARTYRS; JUST SILLY.

Three Communists, arrested at Martin's Ferry, O., last summer, were held up to their red contemporaries all over the nation as "martyrs" after a judge sentenced them to five years in prison and fined them $5000 apiece.

Their sentence helped other Communist agitators very materially. They gave them something to talk about; enabled them to declare that the Communists in this country are being "persecuted."

Now, however, these Communistic props have been knocked out. The Ohio court of appeals has reversed the conviction of the Martin's Ferry trio. The judge who wrote the opinion did not pass on the constitutionality of the law under which Communists were sentenced; he simply remarked that the inflammatory handbills they distributed were just plain silly and inconsequential.

This action will do more to slow up the Communists' work than the stiffest prison sentences that could have been pronounced.

PASCAL'S BIRTH

On June 19, 1623, Blaise Pascal, noted French philosopher, mathematician, and writer, and one of the first to attempt a philosophy of mathematics, was born at Clermont-Ferrand, France.

His mother died in his infancy and his father moved to Paris eight years later. Educated by his father here, Pascal showed remarkable precocity in mathematics. When only 16, he wrote a work on the Geometry of Conics, most of which is lost, though a part has been restored from his correspondence with Leibnitz. It contained many important theorems, one of which is known as the famous Pascal's theorem.

When his sister and father removed to Rouen a few years later, Pascal engaged in scientific studies there. A great change occurred in his life in 1654 when he gave up the study of mathematics and philosophy and embraced the austere religious life of the Jansenists at Port Royal, near Paris, where he spent his remaining years. The subsequent controversy between the Jesuits and Jansenists led to Pascal's publication of the "Provincial Letters," in favor of the latter. These letters are said to be the greatest masterpieces in the literature of irony.

Pascal's decision to devote his life to religion is said to have been caused by a carriage accident.

THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD AND THE MEDICINE CHEST
BY ROBERT L. SWAIN,
Baltimore, Maryland.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. The headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Don't overlook the kitchen cupboard or the medicine chest while you are doing your spring housecleaning. Like every other cupboard or closet, the kitchen cupboard and the medicine chest need a thorough overhauling every now and then. As you look over them you will probably find a lot of things poking away out of sight that have lost their freshness and are useless or even harmful and should be discarded for safety's sake.

The real job comes after the shelves have been cleared out and thoroughly scrubbed with plenty of water and soap, for then you have to decide what is to go back on the shelves. If you want to safeguard your family and to save yourself a lot of trouble, here are some good suggestions:

A. Stop long enough while you are working on your kitchen cabinet to label your boxes and jars or whatever you use as containers for your supplies—and to label them with good, clear lettering.

B. After labelling, separate the harmful ones, such as insecticides and household poisons, from the supplies that are used in cooking, and put them in a different place. Don't keep them in the same place with food supplies or with ingredients used in cooking, and above all, store them beyond the reach of children.

As to the medicine chest;—don't

Opening Arguments In Rongetti's Case

Chicago, June 18.—(UP)—Opening arguments in the trial of Dr. Amante Rongetti, Chicago surgeon, charged with murder in the death of Elizabeth Palmobob, were heard by a jury in Judge Martin J. Isaacs' court today. Dr. Rongetti is charged with performing an illegal operation which caused the death of Miss Palmobob.

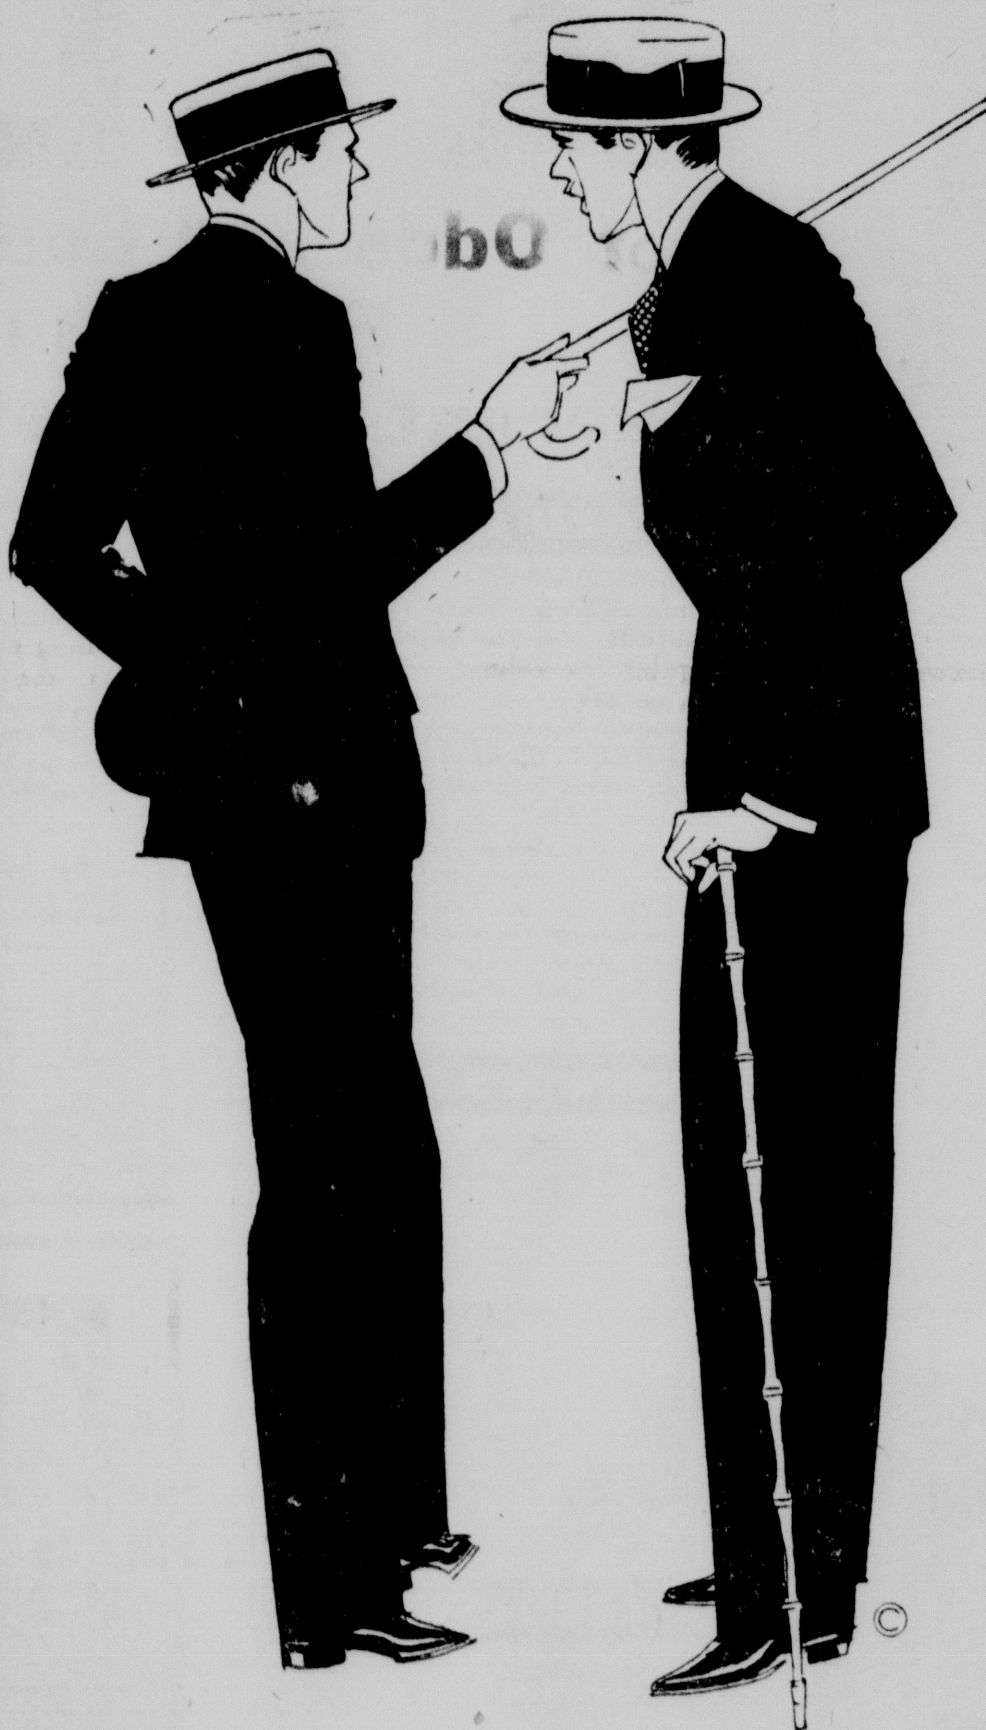

Judge Isaacs commended both counsel for the defense and state in their rapid work in selecting a jury, which at the outset promised to be a tedious task.

Dr. Rongetti was previously convicted on a similar charge and was sentenced to the electric chair, but the state Supreme Court granted him a new trial. At the second trial he was convicted and sentenced to 14 years in prison. Appeal of the sentence now is pending before the state tribunal.

Opening arguments of both defense and state were expected to be completed today, and evidence was to be heard at opening of court tomorrow.

The cost to each scout is $7, with a registration fee of $1 each scout. Each one of these periods is filled, there being 72 scouts for each one. Newman; waterfront director, William Bossart; handicraft director, Oscar Anderson; scoutcraft director, Gunnar Benson; director of records and quartermaster, Leslie Watt; camp cook, George Beuter; canoe director, Maxwell Shumaker.

The Scout oath, and law is the law of the camp.

Parents of scouts are welcome to the camp at any time, and especially at the Sunday religious exercises at 11:30 a. m. They are not to bring candy or cake unless they bring enough for the entire tent.

A trading post will be operated at certain periods each day, to sell postcards, stamps and supplies for craftwork. Candy will also be on sale but each scout is limited to 10 cents a day for it.

Activities in which the Scout campers will engage are, mass games, nature lore, campcraft, canoeing, leathercraft, hikes, court of honor, stunts, minstrel show, star study, circus night, battle night, evening campfires, mystic silences, pioneering, archery and exploration hikes.

Camp Amos Horton is located on Rock river, opposite the town of Lyndon, 13 miles south and west of Sterling, and the mail address is Boy Scout Camp, Lyndon, Ill.

CHURCHILL IS GOOD COOK, HE SHOWS FRIENDS

Culinary Attainments of British Chancellor Bring Club Notoriety

London—(UP)—The versatility of Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, has threatened to disturb the seclusion of one of the oldest and most exclusive clubs in Great Britain, a club which has evaded publicity for more than two centuries.

Not content with being able to lay bricks, ride polo ponies and hold more cabinet positions than any other man in history, Churchill recently demonstrated that he could cook a meal. The occasion was after an especially late sitting at the House of Commons when he took a party of friends to Pratt's club, in Park Street, St. James's.

The chef had departed for the night, so Churchill called for a few chops and appetizers and cooked a supper with the best professional flourish.

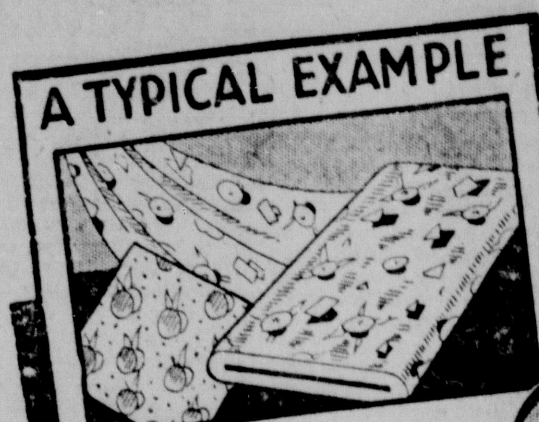

The story of "Winnie's" culinary achievement soon got into the news papers and fixed such attention on Pratt's as it had never known before in its 200 years of existence. Nevertheless it was a stunt entirely in keeping with the club's traditions.

Pratt's is unique among clubs in that it combines austere exclusiveness with a friendly bachelor atmosphere. Its portals are forever closed to women. The Prince of Wales is one of its most frequent users, and the Duke of York and the Duke of Gloucester are also members, but all the members of the royal family take their place alphabetically among the five or six hundred distinguished names which comprise the membership roll.

The quaint little room which is at once the grill and the smokers room holds only about twenty. The old-style seats are scattered in odd corners, and under the low black-beamed ceiling it seems only natural to find peers and famous soldiers smoking long-stemmed clay pipes rather than cigars.

Beyond, in the tiny bar, one finds the only twentieth century note in the place—cocktails.

SHELTON GETS DELAY
East St. Louis, Ill., June 18—(AP)—Carl Shelton, former southern Illinois gang leader, yesterday won a continuance of his trial on charges of violation of the Dyer anti-motor theft act until the September term of Federal court. Shelton's trial last September at Danville on the charge resulted in a disagreement. Shelton, according to the motion by his attorney, is in a local hospital to undergo an operation.

Indians Await Trial of $100,000,000 Suit To Recover Rich Oil Lands in Oklahoma

Seminoles May Become "Richest People in World" If Big Companies Lose Court Battle

By NEA Service
Tulsa, Okla.—Again the interests of the red man and the white man clash in the Indian territory that was supposed to belong to the red man for all time and a new tribe of "the richest people in the world" is in prospect if the Indians win.
The present clash is in the form of another of Oklahoma's big scale law suits, affecting income of $250,000 a day and probably $100,000,000 in future wealth of the famous Seminole oil field in eastern Oklahoma.
The vanishing Seminole Indians, who are back of the suit, declare that they, rather than the present white owners, should be receiving the bounteous royalties now being paid out by oil companies producing in the Seminole field. They claim that when title to their lands in the Seminole country—approximately 375,000 acres—passed into the hands of white purchasers, the sub-surface or mineral rights remained collectively vested in the Seminole nation.
At the time of the sale of the Seminole lands, about 1900, there was no knowledge of the great oil wealth under the surface. No one dreamed that the land would some day be turned into one of the most productive oil pools of all time—the famous Seminole field. Already the field has produced a score or more white millionaires, men and women who bought the land from individual Seminoles who, when the Seminole nation went out of existence as such in 1900, took title to what had formerly been vested in the Seminole nation as a whole.

2000 Authorize Suit
The plaintiffs in the suit are four individual Seminoles, Chilli Fish, Louis Pile, Allan Cran and Samson B. Harjo. These four were authorized to bring suit on behalf of 2000 members of the Seminole tribe at a mass meeting held in August, 1929. The plaintiffs are backed by former United States Senator Robert L. Owen and his associates, among whom are D. H. Linebaugh of Muskogee and H. G. Thompson, a Washington lawyer.
According to the plaintiff's statement, the mineral rights of the land remained collectively vested in the Seminole nation even when the title passed to the individual Seminoles. This arrangement, they argue, was approved by the United States government.

On April 26, 1908, Congress passed an act vesting the mineral rights of the Seminole lands, as well as the surface titles, in the white purchasers. The plaintiffs assert that this act, which specifically provides that the interest of the Seminole nation in the mineral rights should cease, is unconstitutional.

Defense Refutes Claim
Lawyers for the defendants, the Carter Oil Company of Tulsa, and other large and small companies drilling and producing in the Seminole area, refute this unconstitutional argument by showing that, since the Seminole nation ceased to exist as such after 1900, it no longer had anything to lose when the act was passed in 1908. But when the nation ceased to exist, the mineral rights did not pass to the individual because of this, but remained in a common body of Seminoles as opposed to the organized body under the name of "nation," "tribe," or "government."

The Indians do not seek to recover the millions that have already been be tried in federal court at Muskogee. They were given until June 20 to file their answers.

While some of the oil companies are inclined to regard the suit lightly, there are others which seem quite concerned over the possible outcome.
"Present owners of oil and gas royalties in Seminole county possibly stand to lose between $200,000 and $300,000 a day in incomes, while the oil operating companies will probably not be affected in any way," said Judge James A. Veasey, vice president and chief counsel of the Carter Oil Company.
The Seminoles' case resembles that of the Osage tribe of Oklahoma, except that the Osage were still owners of their land when oil was discovered thereon. Previously the Osage had eked out a barren existence on their rocky farms, but the oil millions soon elevated them to the wealthiest people in the world and reckless extravagance followed. Recently, however, their wells have been dwindling.
Seminole's History Colorful
The history of the Seminoles has been a colorful one.
Originally they roamed what are now the southern states and were on close terms with the Creeks of Alabama. As civilization advanced they were driven southward into Florida, where many of them still reside among the Everglades. After repeated and unsuccessful wars with the whites, most of the tribe gave it up as futile. So, about 1843, they consented to being moved to what is now Oklahoma.
After wars with other tribes for many years, the Seminoles were almost propertyless and starving. But a brighter day was dawning for them; a memorable treaty was signed between the Indians of the plains and the Five Civilized Tribes, which the Seminoles represented.
In flowery language it was solemnly agreed between the Indians that: "Peace and friendship shall forever exist between the tribes and bands, parties to this compact, the ancient council fires of our forefathers already kindled by our brothers of the timbered country shall be kept kindled and blazing by brotherly love until their smoke shall ascend to the spirit land to invoke the blessing of the Great Spirit on all of our good works. The tomahawk shall be forever buried, the scalping knife shall never be broken, the war path heretofore leading from one tribe to another shall grow up and become as the wild wilderness."
This solemn treaty was at one time in the possession of Maud D. Jones of Wewoka—of the Jones tepee, which is powerful among the Seminoles—who was a daughter of Mrs. Alice E. Davis, the principal chief of the Seminoles for many years.
The tomahawk was buried and the treaty was kept.

LEE CENTER ITEMS

Lee Center—Mrs. Ida Fox of Tulsa, Okla., is visiting her sister, Mrs. James Riley.
Mrs. Tillie Brasel was re-elected treasurer of the Lee County Council American Legion Auxiliary, Dept. of Illinois, at the annual spring meeting held in Paw Paw last Wednesday.
P. S. Berry and daughter Ruth started last Saturday on a motor trip to California and other western coast states.
Messrs. and Mesdames W. G. Lawrence and Jimmie Lawrence of South Bend, Ind., motored to Geneva last Sunday where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawson, Grace Lawrence and a friend of Chicago. The party then went to Lake Zurich where they enjoyed a picnic dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Lawrence will return to their home after a few days visit in Chicago. Mrs. Dawson was formerly Mary Lawrence.
Mrs. Earl Suter of Oak Park is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Eliza Oakes.
Mrs. A. E. Downey of Springfield visited at the home of her son, Supt. P. P. Downey last week.
Mr. and Mrs. Lester Aschenbrenner and little son, Donald Howard, have moved in the tenant house near the Aschenbrenner elevator and the former is engaged in carpenter work.
Mrs. Raymond Degner entertained a number of ladies at her home Monday with a surprise party in honor of the birthday of her aunt, Mrs. Hattie Lippincott. The afternoon was spent playing bunco and five hundred and the hostess served two courses of delicious refreshments. The guests brought many lovely presents for Mrs. Lippincott and it was certainly a very pleasant occasion. From out of town were Mrs. Adeline Henschel, Dixon; Mrs. Earl Suter, Oak Park; Mrs. Helen Aschenbrenner, Amboy.
Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gentry and little son have moved in with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haefer on Main street.
The Rebekahs will hold their regular meeting Friday night, June 20 and refreshments will be served following the business session.
The Ladies Circle will give a strawberry and ice cream social to the church Thursday night of this week.
Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Heimeroth and family of Rockford were guests at the Fred Meyer home here Sunday.
Mrs. Rena Brewer, who will soon remove to Chippewa Falls, Wis., was guest of honor at a farewell party given by the Ladies' Circle in the church Tuesday afternoon. It was a genuine surprise to Mrs. Brewer, who was in Amboy at the time the guests gathered. Mrs. S. L. Shaw, who was in charge of the program, had composed a clever acoustic with her name, Rena M. Brewer, and eleven young ladies each held a large letter and recited an appropriate line. Other numbers were a piano solo by Mrs. Harry Olmstead; vocal duet, Mesdames Shaw and Suter; reading, Mrs. W. S. Frost. Mrs. Shaw then presented Mrs. Brewer with a box, which when opened, disclosed a beautiful silver flower urn, also suitable for other purposes. Mrs. Brewer expressed her thanks in a few well chosen words. Since coming here about twelve years ago, this lady has been an active and enthusiastic worker in the church and circle, where her industry and artistic talent have proved invaluable. She has endeared herself to the entire community by her many bits of kindness, and while her presence here will be keenly missed we wish her all happiness and prosperity in her future home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haefer, son Melvin and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hernandez of West Brooklyn attended the funeral of a relative in Elgin recently.
The Bradford Community Club met in the Hark school house last Monday night. A feature of the program was a number of readings by Mrs. George Ives of Franklin Grove. Apricot pie ala mode was served by the refreshment committee. The club plan to secure a hall for a dance for the July meeting.

Old Corns Come Off By Thousands
All Dixon Drug Clerks are demonstrating how easily END-O-CORN removes the most stubborn old corns or callouses. Beginning today and all next week thousands of men and women will profit from the demonstrations being given at all Dixon Drug Stores about END-O-CORN.
You who have become discouraged by the poor results obtained from the use of so-called "corn cures" should go to your Drugist TODAY to hear about the ONLY remedy that will surely remove all corns and callouses quickly and without pain.
Don't accept anything except END-O-CORN. It costs only fifty cents, but it's worth $50.—Adv.

Don't make
YOUR ENGINE
FIGHT

HARMFUL
GUM

If you want a fast, clean, smooth engine—don't make it fight harmful gum.
Use Koolmotor Gasolene—a powerful, clean burning motor fuel from which harmful gum has been removed.
Inferior or carelessly refined gasolenes deposit a sticky, gummy substance on your valves. When you step on the gas for more power, your valves have to fight to get free—your engine labors—valuable compression is lost.
Through extra refining and rigid supervision—known as the Cities Service mini-gum process—the gum content in Koolmotor gasolene has been reduced to a harmless minimum. Valves are kept clean—power kept at its maximum—your engine responds promptly to your desire when you use Koolmotor—the original high test, anti-knock green gas.
Don't pay the impending penalty of gum in gasolene. Keep your tank full of Koolmotor Gasolene. The nearest Cities Service station or dealer is waiting to serve you.

Passenger Plane Dives Into River

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 18—(UP)—An American plane fell into the Ohio river below the Point bridge and was submerged with its pilot and one passenger this afternoon.

Captain William Sellers, pilot, and Cecil P. Northrop of Washington, Pa., a passenger, were rescued from drowning by a speed boat crew which put out from shore when the plane started a nose dive a few feet above the water.

Both Sellers and Northrop were injured and taken to Mercy Hospital for treatment.

WAS HELPLESS; KONJOLA GIVES JOYOUS RELIEF

Man Had to be Fed and Dressed—Now Read What He Says About this Modern Medicine.

MR. NICHOLAS RUPPERT

Many of the endorsements of Konjola might challenge belief were the actual facts not known and verified. For example, read the grateful statement of Mr. Nicholas Ruppert, Le-mont, Ill.

"A year ago, a pain in my left knee spread rapidly over my body until I was so helpless that my wife had to feed and dress me. My case was diagnosed as neuritis, and I took treatments and medicines without benefit. Then Konjola was recommended. I took seven bottles and then relief began. In all I took 21 bottles and today, at seventy, I am in remarkably good health. My pain is gone and so is a case of chronic constipation that bothered me for twenty years. I make this statement gladly and without any promise or remuneration whatever."

So it goes, victory after victory, whenever Konjola's 32 ingredients are put to work. Konjola cleanses and stimulates the ailing organs and aids the system of poisons. That's why Konjola triumphs even when all else tried had failed.

"Konjola is sold and recommended by all the better drug stores in Dixon, Illinois and throughout this section."—Adv.

Council Decides To Alter Building Code

Minor changes are to be made in the city's recently enacted building code, members of the city council agreed at their regular weekly meeting Tuesday evening when it was decided to change certain sections applying to fire linings and the location of buildings on lots.

Two bids were received by the council for the construction of the Ninth street sewer. Leake Brothers of Amboy submitted a bid of $810 and D. L. Heagy of this city, $865. The council will meet Friday morning at 10 o'clock to award the contract.

The regular monthly bills amounting to $2,513.14 were ordered paid.

A few objections were received by mail to the proposed paving of Highland Avenue from Fifth to Sixth Streets but no objectors were present at the public hearing last evening. The council adopted a resolution adhering to the scheme and the City Attorney was instructed to prepare an ordinance covering the proposed improvement.

VOTE POLICE PROBE
Chicago, June 18—(UP)—The city council, with Mayor William Hale Thompson presiding, adopted today a resolution for a drastic investigation into the police department. The action was preceded by several fiery speeches taking the department to task and drawing its defenders to their feet.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Hey! Hey! Please stop this swing for me. I'm getting dizzy as can be," cried Clowny. "I have had my turn, and I have had enough." "All right," said Scouty. "Please don't drop."

And then he made the big swing stop. Poor Clowny surely looked as if the going had been rough. The others wished to swing a bit and Clowny sighed. "I'll gladly sit down in the nice soft grass and wait until you all are through." "That suits me fine," wee Copy cried. "This swinging makes a dandy ride. We may as well have fun while there is nothing else to do."

The fun they all had made him smile. And then he got a sudden hunch and shouted, "Let me take my turn upon that dandy swing. I'm sure that I will like the thing. I only hope my heftiness will not cause it to break."

One little Russian boy replied, "It's safe for you to take a ride. And so the Travel Man hopped in. "Now push me hard," he said. And so they pushed him up and then the swing came swinging down again. A tree branch near made him afraid that he would bump his head.

It wasn't long till everyone had had his ride and had his fun. And then they thanked the Russian boys and went upon their way. "Let's hike out in the country air," said Carpy. "We can soon get there. I think that we have seen enough of city life today."

So very promptly they all hied far out along the countryside. Soon came a farmer's wagon. 'Twas a very funny kind. "Hey! Can we join you?" Clowny cried. "We all would much enjoy a ride." "Sure thing," exclaimed the farmer. "You can all jump on behind."

(The Tinymites visit a camp in the next story.)

A WORD TO THE WISE!

When tempted to over-indulge

"Reach for a Lucky instead"

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOAST-ED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

*In the U. S. Public Health Reports of 1923, Volume 38, Page 1271, we find the following: "Among short men less than 5 feet 7 inches in height an excess (in weight) of 20% involves an added mortality of 30% above normal. A 40% excess adds 80% to the mortality." We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

QUICK PILE RELIEF

No Salves or Cutting

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, succeeds, because it removes this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts.

HEM-ROID tablets as sold by druggists everywhere, have such a wonderful record for quick and lasting relief, that Rowland's Pharmacy always sell them with guarantee of money-back if they do not end all Pile suffering.—Adv.

CLEVELAND'S $100,000,000 TERMINAL STATION SOON READY

Cleveland's new $100,000,000 Union Terminal, pictured here in a striking aerial view of the downtown section of the city, will be formally opened June 28 with railroad dignitaries from throughout the nation attending. Nearly 10 years in the making it is part of a vast project that includes skyscrapers, streets, garages, bridges, hotels, banks and other forms of business. While a few trains have been using the station since Jan. 1, June 28 marks the inauguration of full east and west traffic. The terminal is a project of O. P. and M. P. Van Sweringen, Cleveland's youthful rail wizards. It is pictured here in this striking aerial view, taken by Aerial Surveys, Inc., the 50-story tower of the new railroad station being visible in the center of the picture. At the left is Hotel Cleveland and at the right one of the big office buildings, also a part of the terminal project. The Cuyahoga river is seen in the foreground. Just behind the tower is Cleveland's public square.

The home was decorated in flowers and crepe paper and the happy mother watched every move with keen delight. The banquet table was loaded with all sorts of goodies and following the feast, the guests indulged in old time songs and swapping yarns. Those present were: Mary S. Virginia and Geneva White of Spring Valley; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson and son Oliver, the fourth, of Sheridan, Wyo.; Hattie (Johnson) Haskel of Pasadena Cal. and son Floyd Denmark and wife of New York, and daughter Grace Bodt of Kalamazoo, Mich.; Oliver P. Johnson, the third, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Johnson of Berwyn, Ill.; Ruby (Johnson) Dutton of Los Angeles, Cal.

This was the first time that the family had all been together for such a gathering since the death of their father, Oliver P. Johnson, the second, and will be a pleasant memory in their hearts for many years to come. It was also a great pleasure to the mother who had been looking forward to such a family gathering for many years.

In advantage of the presence of all the members of the family, a Johnson picnic was hurriedly planned for the following day, but on account of the inclemency of the weather, the picnic had to be converted into a house party with a

BISHOP CANNON CALLS ATTACKER "COWARD;" DEFY

He Was Object Of Severe Arraignment By Mass.
Congressman

Washington, June 18—(AP)—Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts was challenged by Bishop Cannon today to repeat his charges against the dry leader in a way which would make him subject to prosecution for libel.

Speaking in the House, Tinkham late yesterday said the southern churchman "will stand convicted in the eyes of all honest men of having appropriated" to his own use money given to him to prosecute the anti-Smith campaign of two years ago.

This assertion was made after he had reviewed Cannon's refusal to tell the Senate Lobby committee of the disbursement of $48,300 given him by E. C. Jameson of New York to promote the Hoover cause in the south.

Passing through Louisville, Kentucky, last night, Cannon read of Tinkham's statement in the newspapers and immediately dispatched the following telegram to Washington:

Cannon's Challenge

"When Congressman Tinkham shall give to the press over his personal signature the statements reported by the press as made by him today on the floor of the House of Representatives where he is immune from prosecution for libelous statements, he may command the respect of honorable men, but making such statements on the floor of the House where he knows his immunity from prosecution brands him as a blustering cowardly Congressman appealing especially to his wet Roman Catholic Boston voters to retain him in office."

Before the lobby committee Jameson testified he gave Cannon $48,300 of this amount the Bishop reported the expenditure in a manner which made it unnecessary that a report be filed.

Tinkham appeared before the committee and charged Cannon with a violation of the corrupt practices law through his failure to report the entire sum, an assertion which he repeated yesterday.

Cannon repeatedly refused to answer questions on his political activities when before the committee and contended such an examination lay outside the committee's authority. On this point he was upheld by a majority of the committee.

A report on the Cannon episode was prepared for introduction today by the committee chairman, Caraway of Arkansas. It consisted only of the transcript of the Bishop's testimony and contained no recommendations for action against him.

THAT now is the time to go after business harder than ever.

The important question is how best to secure it.

The best way to get business is to buy well assorted stocks and then advertise to bring in the buyers.

Well written advertisements—ads that tell the story of what you have for sale—will create desire.

Advertising is one of the greatest factors in building business.

Newspapers are the greatest friends of better business. They always render worth while service to those who cooperate with them.

It is always best to try for a quick turnover of stock at a reasonable profit, rather than a slow turnover at a large profit.

If you will review in your mind the business failures you have seen, you will realize that most of them would not have failed if they had been consistent and persistent advertisers.

GOOD ADVERTISING DOES MUCH TO BUILD PRESTIGE FOR A BUSINESS. IT CREATES A DEMAND FOR GOODS THAT PROTECTS THE LIFE OF THE BUSINESS.

MILLER TELLS OF FINE POINTS OF INSIDE GAME

The Second Of Series Of Lessons On Base Ball Is Given

(Editor's Note—The following is the second of the series of baseball instructions furnished by the Evening Telegraph for the boys of Lee county and surrounding territory without charge. Last week, Sheriff Miller instructed about 150 boys in the proper method to stand at the plate and to hold the bat. This week it is something different. These talks are not given at the fields, and the boys are told to read them carefully to develop their game.)

By WARD T. MILLER

In my second article I am going to try and explain some inside baseball. A ball club is run by signals given by the manager or relayed from him to some other player who gives them on the field. Generally these signals come from the bench to the coach's box. On most all ball clubs the players have their own signs to tell the base runner what he is going to do, but he is generally told when to do the right thing at the right time by the team manager. On a good ball club, well organized and managed, the system of signals is arranged so that every member of the team knows what his fellow player is trying to do at all times. There are a small percentage of plays that go through imperfect, but this is all blamed to the law of averages.

There are players who never grasp the system of signals but go through the game with a slam-bang style of play. In all of my years of experience, there was but one ball club that was almost perfect when it came to playing the game by signals. That was the old Chicago Cubs in 1912. They had played together so long that they knew just what the other fellow was trying to do at all times. For instance, when a batter saw another player starting to steal a base, he just naturally helped him out by swinging at a ball or trying to trouble the catcher in a natural way. No matter what instruction the manager gives you, do it. He is the boss and it is he who takes the blame for the winning or loss of the game.

Almost every boy knows what it means to hunt the ball and what this play is intended for. It is for the purpose of advancing a base runner. There is but one thing to do when the manager sends you to the plate to hunt the ball. Just give yourself up by hunting the ball so that the runner ahead of you on the bases may advance and you are most likely thrown out. Never try to advance the runner and at the same time try and beat out the hunt, as this is most likely to result in a double play and two will be thrown out instead of one.

The hit-and-run play is an entirely different style and is much more difficult. The batter signals the base runner that on the next pitched ball, that the runner must be on the run to the next base and that the batter will attempt to hit the ball. The batter must take a swing at the ball no matter where it is pitched, because the catcher is watching every move you are making and is always on the alert for these signals. It is only natural for a baseman to cover the bag when a runner leads off and starts to steal, the baseman being in readiness to receive the throw from the catcher. Should the batter connect with the ball it has a greater chance of being a fair hit as the baseman is covering the bag. Always try and hit the ball on the ground on a hit-and-run play and try and figure which baseman is going to cover the bag and then direct your hit as much as possible to his position which has been left open. The simpler the signals the better for your baseball players. One of the best and at the same time most understandable set of signals I ever saw or played with, was as follows: On a hit and run play, the batter approached the box with one hand holding the big end of the bat. Another was the laying of the bat on the shoulder of the batsman as he stepped into the box. Again the batsman neither held his bat over the big end of the bat, but merely stepped into the box with the bat resting on his shoulder. When the game is started the manager will instruct his players as to which signal will be used in that particular game. If after a few innings, it is believed that the opposing players are solving the secret signs, then the manager would order a switch to another signal. By this system of signs the other team is continually guessing. It might also be called to the attention of the candidates who have reported for the second instruction in baseball and who are anxious to know how the game is played in the big leagues, that every manager has three outstanding requirements of his players which are the first and the strictest rules to be observed and that these positively forbid drinking, gambling and the keeping of late hours. If obeyed, these rules are certain to develop a winning team.

FANS SKEPTICAL ABOUT STADIUM'S FEATURE FIGHT

Still Looking For Runout On Part Of Stribling Before The Scrap

Chicago, June 19—(AP)—The off again, on again heavyweight match between Otto Von Porat and W. L. "Young" Stribling, now scheduled for the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night, had the fight fans, State Boxing Commission and even the promoters guessing today.

Stadium officials were determined and positive the 10 round battle would be held on schedule but the fight fans were skeptical, claiming neither fighter wanted to meet the other and fearing a last minute "run out."

Originally, the match was billed for June 17 by verbal agreement with the fighters. Von Porat and his manager, Ed Stevenson, later declined to sign, however, until the Commission suspended them for 60 days and redated the match for June 18 Tuesday. Stribling requested the match be postponed, complaining he had injured his left hand in training. The Commission's physician said he could detect nothing radically wrong with the hand but fight again was postponed until Friday night.

Yesterday Stribling refused to do any boxing, complaining his hand was sprained. Stadium officials, however, said they were convinced he was in condition to go through with his engagement.

"We wanted a postponement so W. L. would be in the best of condition for the fight," explained "Pa" Stribling. "Although the bones in the hand are not fractured, the hand is sprained, a recurrence of an injury he received four months ago. We intend to go through with the fight and will deaden the nerves in the hand before the fight starts."

Sidney Strotz, head of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, admitted he was puzzled by events. "The physicians have proved Stribling's hand is not injured," Strotz said. "I do not know why Stribling, with his record, should be afraid of Von Porat unless thoughts of the $700,000 which Schmeling and Sharkey, rival heavyweights, drew in New York, induced a desire to pass up his 25 per cent tomorrow sight in hope of a bigger chance. We have scheduled a good match. It will be sold out and we expect to break the attendance record for an indoor fight. The bout will be held."

Meanwhile, Von Porat is doing some chucking and training hard for the fight.

Nurses will find Record Sheets at the B. F. Shaw Printing Co.

Washington, June 19—(AP)—Now that Arthur "The Great" Shires is a Senator, he plans to resume his vocal technique and hike his betting average.

"When the White Sox gagged 'The Great Shires, they crushed his spirit and destroyed his superb power as a ball player," he explained to his new mates. "Vocal technique and batting go hand in hand for me and I'm going to resume 'em both."

Chicago, June 19—(AP)—Revillie Boy, the three-year old upstart which upset the American Derby last Saturday, also started a "long shot" parade at Washington Park. Since John Best's colt thundered home in the Derby and rewarded two dollar pari-mutuel ticket holders with $113.08, the long shots have been having field days, and the bookies headaches.

Sum Memory followed Revillie Boy's long shot habit Saturday by paying $96.96 for a two dollar ticket. On Monday, Ripfield paid $103 and yesterday Chelys, a three-year old fill owned by A. B. Hancock, came in, and paid the largest sum of all of them—$159.28.

All but Revillie Boy won by a nose. He won by four lengths. y..tOdfrwctd-solo7In9Ialedr od iY

New York, June 19—(AP)—New

Broom, the costliest yearling of all time, the colt for which C. V. Cushman paid $75,000, still is a maiden. The son of Whisk Broom II made his first start as a three-year old at Aqueduct yesterday and ran last, which was the same position he finished in his only start as a two-year old in 1929. Incidentally Broadway Limited for which W. T. Wagner of Texas paid $65,000 the same year at Saratoga also still has to win his first race.

Detroit, June 19—(AP)—Paolino Uzcudun and Johnny Risko today awaited the gong which will send them to the center of the ring tonight in a ten round match which is expected to have an important bearing on the selection of an opponent for Max Schmeling next fall or winter.

Both men were reported in the top of condition. The official weighing-in this afternoon is expected to reveal a difference of only two or three pounds, both weighing slightly over 150.

It will be their second meeting. In the first match, Risko was awarded a decision which still is protested by the Basque Woodchopper and his adherents.

New York, June 19—(UP)—The New York State Athletic Commission met today to consider the flimsy result resulting from the waiving of its regulation concerning fouls in the Schmeling-Sharkey championship bout.

Obviously the board is meeting to consider Max Schmeling's foul victory and to rule on awarding him the title, but the principal business is expected to be an attempt to force a re-match under Madison Square Garden promotion in September.

William Muldoon, sponsor of the elimination series which produced the Scott-Sharkey and Sharkey-Schmeling foul controversies, has gone on record as favoring another meeting between Sharkey and Schmeling before officially recognizing the successor to Gene Tunney.

Chicago, June 19—(AP)—Chicago fight promoters, notably the Stadium management, intend to build a high fence around their local show field this summer and hereafter to repel the rumored invasion by Madison Square Garden.

Since the Sharkey-Schmeling match, reports that the Garden officials would bring their next big match here have been causing Chicago promoters considerable uneasiness and stirring up opposition against a new repetition of the Dempsey-Tunney spectacle at Soldier Field three years ago.

"I see by the papers that Madison Square Garden is talking about coming into Chicago with a big fight, maybe Schmeling and Sharkey or Schmeling and Dempsey," Sidney Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium said. "Well, the Stadium will not sit by idly and let outsiders horn in."

Other promoters here voiced the same sentiment, some even threaten-

Independents' Schedule Ready For Several Weeks

The management of the Dixon Independents announced the schedule of their games for the next few Sunday. They will go to DeKalb next Sunday to play the Red Caps of that city. The Red Caps are supposedly one of the fastest semi-pro clubs in central Illinois. They have a remarkable record for the season and the Independents are practicing hard to get in trim for this game.

The Polo W. S. Royals will come to Dixon the 29th of June. The Dixon-Polo games are always interesting. In the past two years Dixon and Polo have split even in games, each winning two. This season the two teams are playing a series of games to determine which club is superior.

Dixon won the first of the series at Polo 5-1. Polo has strengthened their outfit and feel confident that they will win the remaining games of the series.

On July 4th the Independents have booked the Chicago Union Grays, colored baseball team for a game here. They are the oldest colored team in the middle west, now playing their 44th season. They are one of the leading teams in the Colored National League.

On July 6th the Independents go to Polo and on July 13th, the Elgin All-Stars will come to Dixon.

ing a promotional war if such an invasion takes place.

Baseball Gossip

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. (Associated Press Sports Writer)

To a disinterested observer it would appear that the scene of a ball game should not make much difference in the result where such season campaigners as major league players are concerned, but it does not always work out that way. The National League clubs of the east, which are just opening their second western tour, found surprising success at home but it is rather doubtful whether they will continue it on the road.

The New York Giants, who routed their intersectional opponents to the tune of nine victories in 12 games at the Polo Grounds, had a large amount of trouble yesterday in taking their first game of the tour from the Pittsburgh Pirates, who won but four out of 13 away from home. The final count was 4 to 3 for New York.

Other National League clubs do not start the second half of the east-west test until today, but on the basis of form shown in the games since June 1, the eastern clubs have all the advantage. They won 34 contests while the west took but 18, with only the hard fighting Chicago Cubs getting better than a .500 average. Every eastern club won more games than it lost.

In the American League, the struggle was somewhat closer as the east's leading pennant contenders held their own although they were pulled down from the heights they had reached before they invaded the western half of the circuit. The east came out ahead, 26 games to 25, due principally to the activities of the New York Yankees, who won nine and lost three. The other eastern clubs came out just below the 500 mark but their western rivals, with the exception of the Cleveland Indians, were in the same vicinity. Cleveland won eight out of 12 games.

The Indians, after pushing up to within striking distance of the league lead, found when they came east again yesterday that the Philadelphia Athletics have a real championship team despite eight defeats in 14 games. Cleveland had a chance to oust the world's champions from first place but even their pitching ace, Wes Ferrell, could not stop the Athletics in a crucial moment. The A's made a dozen hits and equalled an American League record for home run hitting in winning a 7 to 2 decision.

A. Simmons, Jimmy Foxx and Bing Miller connected with Ferrell's delivery in the fifth inning for three successive home runs, a feat that had been performed only twice before in American League history. A return game will be played next Wednesday evening at 6:20, and a large number of Nachusa fans have expressed their intention of attending.

TRIBUTE TO A DECEASED GRANDFATHER—

(A tribute to the memory of her beloved grandfather, Edward Seyfarth)

By Emma Jane Harris.

THE peonies that you planted, daddie dear,
With languorous rosy heads
Dispelling the dew;
Your verdant hedge is high Enough to shear.
But where, oh where, my Daddie dear, are you?

Your cherry tree with ruddy fruit
Bends low,
Into my window peeks your rambler rose,
With bridal wreath your lawn is flecked, like snow.
Where is the one who carefully tended those?

Where is your early step upon the stair,
Where art the hands so sensitive,
so strong?
Where is the voice that hummed a bygone air,
To shorten some task that otherwise were long?

Dead Daddie, immortal now, you can't be gone,
You live in each flower you tended, day by day,
You live in the strains of each familiar song,
You live in the hearts of your own,
forever and always.

Meeting of Shepherd's Class Was Enjoyed

The Shepherd's Class of the Evangelical church held an enjoyable meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. LeFevre.

A large number of members and friends were present and two new members were added to the roll.

The meeting was opened by all singing a chorus, followed by prayer by Rev. A. D. Shaffer.

Scripture was read by Darrell Palmer. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. It was decided to hold a class picnic next month.

After other business was disposed of Roy Finney gave an interesting talk on "The Best Way to Secure new members for the class. This completed the business session.

A program was then given as follows:

Duet—Mrs. Roy Finney and Mr.
Reuben Winebrenner.
Reading—Mrs. Russell Nye.
Duet—Mrs. Geo. LeFevre, Miss Reagle.

Talk—A. D. Shaffer.
Vocal solo—Raymond Wollbrandt.
Luncheon was then served by the hostesses, Mrs. Geo. LeFevre and Mrs. Murray Wentling completing the happy evening.

WRAP-AND-TIE STYLE CORRECT FOR AFTERNOON—

Paris—(AP)—Things that wrap around the waist and then tie in a careless double knot are the correct afternoon version of chic, says a prominent woman designer of sports apparel here.

The wrap-around principle is applied to a spiral peplum which ends eventually in a loosely wrapped belt tied with a knot or two.

Scarves which develop into belts and surplice sections of bodices which become scarves, tieable in various ways, are variations.

MANHATTAN SUITINGS ON STYLE HORIZON—

Paris—(AP)—Manhattan suitings, smooth finished, as opposed to rough finished tweeds, are fighting it out with homespun and mixtures for supremacy in autumn tailored fashions.

The newer suitings have a slight ascendancy over tweed for short coated tailored suits. For the three quarter coated suits—and they will be many for autumn—the rough tweeds still are favorites.

Register for Illinois Better Babies Contest

Springfield, Ill., June 19—(APJ)—
With facilities for examining 1,000 babies at the Illinois State Fair Better Babies Conference, Dr. Andy Hall, state health director has announced that registration for entering children in the contest opened June 16.

"The superior qualifications and skill of the medical, dental, psychiatric and nursing staff selected to do the professional work at the conference make the opportunity for a free examination a real privilege that ought to result in great benefit to the children whose parents take advantage of it," Dr. Hall said.

Afternoon dresses, shown here in midsummer style collections which are the final edition preceding winter showings, consistently cover the calf and range downward to the ankle.

Even street clothes are influenced half point from their score. By having children who are to enter the conference vaccinated against smallpox and immunized against diphtheria parents can insure a full point toward a perfect score and the children will be protected against both diseases also.

"The examination quarters have been improved also. New suction fans that will provide constant circulation of air and good ventilation have been installed.

"Clear up your skin,
dear, and you will be popular, too"

A lovely, clear skin is within your reach

WITH the last blemish gone, confidence returns. More friends, more invitations—more good times. With the joy and pride of possessing a clear skin, self-respect increases.

A lovely, clear skin is within the reach of all.
To you who have lost it, hope is offered, that you, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low.

The natural way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood nourishes the body and works against infection and disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders, take a few bottles of S.S.S.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
Two by Mrs. A. D. Shaffer

Much has been said about the backyard playground for children.
The sand-pile, sliding board, see-saw, and turning-bar have had the laurel wreath of the hygienists rung over them for years not only because of the fresh air benefits to the children, but because they give opportunity for muscular development and coordination.

But with the exception of the sand-pile, what about the little folk who aren't able to use the other things? After four or five they can usually thoroughly enjoy such gymnastic plays in the open air, but little children are not able to engineer their own way on these things, and to urged to do so with their older sisters and brothers is likely to develop a certain terror of motion, not because they are cowardly but because they do not yet possess the coordination of mind and muscle, or what we call muscular control, that gives all of us at any age that satisfying feeling of safety.

All this leaves the little child of two, three, or four years somewhat at a loose end. We turn him out in the yard with instructions to "play" and he has nothing to play with.
More parents every year, by the way, are trying to get the children off the street away from danger, noise, and the dust germs. So far so good, but if the child is out in the yard getting the sun and air he should have, he is soon going to tire of his own company, or watching his sisters and brothers play. The result is that after a little while he comes into the house where it is much more interesting and he has his toys to amuse him.

Move Playground Outside

If Mahomet will have his mountain, why not move it out to him?
Why not let him have his playroom outdoors? A place where he can keep his toys and amuse himself most of the day. The idea is just one step removed from the covered sand-pile. This outdoor playhouse may be as crude as you like.
But one thing it should have, and that is a cover. A piece of awning will do, or a more pretentious roof on poles to keep out the rain and some of the sun. The sides, at least two, should be open. A big wooden box with a padlock to hold his toys at night will save time and labor.
Beside this he should have a little chair and a low table.

The rest of the yard should be free of nails, bits of glass, or any rubbish and level enough for him to exercise on his kiddie car or to pull his little toys around on strings. He needs these simple exercises and he will do them himself. His body seeks its own means of development.
He will wheel a little doll cart around, not because he is aping his sister particularly, but because nature says he must, push something.
He'll love a great ball such as they sell for beaches. Get him a bean bag to throw, or a little garden set.
But what can he do in the playroom itself?

Get him crayons and big books to scribble his crude little pictures in—here is where the table and chair come in: he should have this or similar plays for finger and eye development and coordination. Big blocks—blunt little scissors, and paper to cut—while glue and squares of colored paper to paste in old magazines are all splendid amusements. His sand-pile can be put in one corner of the playground. On there are so many things that will keep him amused for hours at a time.

Later he will turn to the more gymnastic plays without your urging. In the meantime he will be getting the fresh air that nature intended him to have.

Willing Workers 4-H Club Meeting

ed.

good jokes and Lois Rooker played a piano solo.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistake and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you bat.

POET'S CORNER CLOUD PICTURES On lovely days the clouds float by in graceful, soft design. Like cherubs, trailing off the sky Their lacy robes so fine.

On stormy days in ominous way They bleakly rend apart. And leave the sky a mottled gray, All pierced with angry darts.

The sight of Heaven's wondrous show Means all the world to me; For there's a difference you know In all the clouds you see:

Some speak of love and some of hate, And some of hope so fair. And if you search them for your fate, You'll find your heart laid bare.

Lo, pictures of your soul's desire Before your eyes unfold— Steadying the flick'ring fire Of all your dreams untold.

And if you're sorrowful and tired, And rest seems far away, Just search the clouds—you'll be inspired By what they have to say.

Of grief and hate we will not think; For like the clouds of rain, They gradually disperse and shrink And love shines through again.

DANCING & JUDITH

by CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH GRANT, beautiful artist's model, shares her Greenwich Village apartment with CLAUDE MORLEY, known as Chummy, a beautiful girl whose memory has been gone ever since ALAN STEYNE, her lover, abruptly disappeared seven years ago. Alan suddenly reappears, but Chummy fails to recognize him. Instead, Alan falls in love with Judith, telling her that he had never really loved Chummy and had not dreamed his disappearance would unsettle her so greatly. Then, unexpectedly, Chummy recovers her memory. She returns to the apartment one day, finds Judith and Alan talking together, and with a wild cry throws herself into Alan's arms.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

JUDY took one look at Alan Steyne's face and fled. She went into her own room and stood under the little window set high in the slanting roof. Her emotions were too many and too complex for her to analyze them; but she was sure that foremost among them was joy because Chummy was herself again, and because she was so lovely, so irresistible, and Alan must fall in love with her now, if he had not done so before.

But, as she stood there, her face set and pale under the patches of paint, her lips trembled a little. Her thoughts leaped involuntarily back to that one perfect night of the dinner and the musicale and the violets, and tears that she struggled to keep back made her eyes smart and tingle.

Chummy put her head in at the door.

"Judy, what are you doing? Come along. You've been away ages and ages!"

Judy smiled into the transfigured face with the silver flaxen hair and the golden-brown eyes that were so wonderful since they had lost their vacant look. She followed her friend into the other room.

She did not look directly at Alan, although she spoke to him in her gay, hoarse voice.

"Well, this is a great day, isn't it, Mr. Steyne?"

"Judy," put in Chummy excitedly, "did you know that Alan was coming back? It's all so wonderful—just like a fairy tale!"

JUDY was uncertain how to answer, so she gave her friend a hug and said gently:

"You see, Chummy, dear, dreams do come true. Well, and when are you going to get married?"

"Oh, Judy!" exclaimed Chummy, rosy with shyness. "We haven't thought of such a thing yet. It's just enough that Alan is back!"

She had gained since her recovery, among other qualities that surprised Judy into wondering at her, a reserve that she had never displayed in her childish state. The younger girl felt her friend withdrawing herself into realms where she could not follow. There were dignity and authority about her. There were many other things, too, that Judy would never understand—stores of knowledge in a well-trained mind that were drawn on once more by the revived intelligence, and the desire for books, and the appreciative sensibilities of the artist directed upon every subject in nature and human life.

After the first embarrassment at Judy's question about their marriage, Chummy suddenly became self-possessed.

"Judy," she said, "I want you to tell Alan about me—I mean about my losing my memory, and being ill, and all that. Somehow, when I try to tell him, I can't find the words; but I want him to know. I

But as she stood there her lips trembled a little. Her thoughts leaped back to that one perfect night.

of her mental stagnation she had acquired a certain way of ordering people about and taking things for granted that was not natural to her.

"I wasn't there at the start, Mr. Steyne," she said; "but I believe that soon after you went away Chummy was very ill, and when she got better she'd lost her memory. She was well and strong again, but she just didn't remember anything about that time. And that's all there is to it. Then, the other day, when she had pneumonia and nearly died, her memory came back."

"But, Judy, how did I live?" interrupted Chummy, with a puzzled air. "My old aunt I went to see to-day asked me that. I don't think I had any money."

"Oh, yes, you had," said her friend. "It lasted a long time," she added vaguely. "There wasn't much to spend it on."

"But now, Judy?"

CHUMMY's golden-brown eyes compelled an answer.

"Oh, that's all right—everybody at the cafe loves you so, Chummy, dear. They were only too pleased to see you."

"You mean that I've been living on charity?" asked Chummy, with a touch of proud revolt.

"At this Judy flared up. "If you call it charity when a lot of people adore you, and would do anything in the world to keep you well and happy, and simply gloat over every little thing they can do for you? I call it something else."

A very humble look came into Chummy's proud face. In the years

Stalin Placing Serfdom Restraint
By EUGENE LYONS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Moscow—(UP)—Joseph Stalin, as spokesman for the Communist Party whose unquestioned leader he is, has effectively laid the ghost of "serfdom" on the collectives.
In recent months, while the fanatical drive for collectives at any price was under full steam, official pronouncements limited the freedom of movement and personal initiative of the peasants who joined the collective farms. In a few instances this tendency originated in Moscow governing circles; in most cases it was pushed further by over-enthusiastic local functionaries.

Just who is to be blamed for the drastic restraints put upon the collectivized peasant is not yet clear. But it inevitably led to loud murmurs of dismay.

"We are going back to serfdom," thousands of peasants complained. "Instead of being tied to the land of a single landlord we are tied to the collective. The government is our new landlord. What is the difference?"

This fear of a return to serfdom under aegis of the state was effectively utilized by the enemies of the collective movement.

Stalin has now made it clear that within the frame of the collective the individual peasant must and will retain a great freedom of action. Not only is his right to withdraw from the collective—whether to resume private planting or to move to the city—confirmed but he is given wide privileges to earn additional money for his family by doing occasional work outside of the collective.

Indeed, in line with Stalin's statement, the agrarian officials have announced that peasants joining collectives will have a perfect right to use the common property, such as horses, for their own purposes when that property is not otherwise in use. This will enable peasants to earn an extra penny in the city as cabmen during the months between harvest and planting, as they have been accustomed to do in the past. They will merely pay a percentage to the collective for the use of the horses and wagons.

Where the trend of official policy a few months ago was to load the collective members with more and more duties, the present trend is exactly the reverse. He is being loaded with privileges and facilities—anything to keep him from leaving the collective farm and to prove to him that he is better off there than he could be as an individual farmer.

LIBRARIES FOR COLLEGES
New York, June 18—(UP)—President Frederick P. Keppel of the Carnegie Corporation has announced that $425,000 has been voted by the organization during the present year to enable approximately 30 widely distributed colleges to improve their libraries in under-graduate teaching. The awards, made by a specially selected group for annual grants over a period of two to five years, included Beloit College, Beloit, Wis.; Illinois College, Jacksonville, Ill.; Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Ill.; and Rosary College, River Forest, Ill.

ENGLISH HUMOR
London—(UP)—A broker who entered Lloyd's wearing plus-fours received first whistles and catcalls, then wads of paper, rugs, mats and other missiles, and was carried from the chamber when he pulled a cap cabmen during the months between harvest and planting, as they have

CLARA BOW FEARS ALIENATION SUIT SO SHE PAYS WIFE

"It" Girl of Films Will Dig Up $30,000 To Prevent Action

BY RICHARD L. HARKNESS, United Press Staff Correspondent, Dallas, Tex., June 18—(UP)—Clara Bow, "flaming youth" girl of the movies, was in Dallas today for the express purpose of averting an alienation of affections suit. Before the red-haired actress leaves, she plans to see $30,000 safely in the hands of the wife of her latest "boy friend." It was that unnamed lady, incidentally, to whom Clara said she sent $30,000 more than a year ago to forestall an alienation suit for five times that amount. "I was nice to her husband," the actress said. "Then she came along and threatened to sue me and bring my name as co-respondent in a divorce suit she was planning. She said she would take $30,000 cash instead, so I decided to pay off and settle the whole affair.

"But now I find she never got that money. I'm going to see that she gets it, too, because if she doesn't she might bring up that $150,000 suit again and I never knew there was that much money in the world. I couldn't pay off if I had to hang."

"Fell For Him Hard."
Draped over a chaise longue in her suite at the Baker hotel here, the "It" girl sorrowfully told the correspondent the details of her attraction for the "boy friends."

"I met the man on the coast and fell for him plenty hard—too hard, I guess. I knew he was married but he said his wife didn't understand him. And he did have such nice manners. "Then his wife came to California and, gosh, was she mad! I paid her $30,000 and thought everything was ended. The boy's folks sent him to Europe so he could forget me, but I received the longest cablegrams from him. I answered them, saying I never wanted to see him again.

What else could I do? He had already cost me $30,000. "And he may cost me more than that before I'm through, but I don't know where the money would come from. I'm just about off men for life."

Miss Bow said the divorce suit would come up for action in Los Angeles some time this summer, but by that time she expects to "have everything fixed up swell again."

Miss Bow said she probably would stay here until June 22 before returning to Hollywood to start work on "Miss Hula," a romance of the South Seas.

FILM OFFICIALS SILENT.
Hollywood, June 18—(UP)—Paramount Studio officials, for whom Clara Bow completed a picture about a week ago, had little to say today about Dallas reports that Clara was in that city to settle a $150,000 alienation of affections suit.

B. P. Schulberg, general manager of the studios, declared Miss Bow "has always been inclined to make extravagant statements," and refused to issue a formal statement.

Bolivian Rebels Claim Successes

Buenos Aires, June 18—(AP)—Important successes were claimed today for a movement against the Bolivian government by Roberto Hinojosa, a radical leader and former member of the La Paz diplomatic service. Government circles disputed the claims.

Wires were down, preventing complete communication with the Bolivian capital and intervening points, and the cable companies said censorship had been imposed on outgoing telegrams.

Both revolutionary and government elements, however, admitted capture of the frontier town of Villazon, just across the border from La Quiaca, Argentina, yesterday by a force headed by Hinojosa. Three persons were wounded, one of them a police corporal.

At the Bolivian embassy it was said that only 20 soldiers had been guarding the town.

Friends of the movement claimed that only three departments, Sucre, Potosi, and Tarija, had failed to respond, while some dispatches here said activity was confined to the southern section of the country.
